it's fucking hilarious when he said that he felt that he had a witch hunt/persecution campaign against him when he himself has posted civilians names photos etc on his public fb and insulted them, like because of him one campaign was started against one hesburger worker who had tweeted on their anon twitter, without saying where they work, without any indication where they work on their twitter etc that they wanted to spit on someone's hamburger who had "make america great again" hat, and then sebastian's imageboard pals/fans doxed them and told about the tweet to their workplace and they got fired like one trade union was like wtf is this the person was anonymous and didn't say on their twitter where they work so they had every right to post shit on their anon twitter without getting fired

Based on the note pasted on their website it looks like it may have been a Chris related thing? Whatever it was, tho, good riddance

From what little I know, Null (the guy who runs it) has been a target for a long time by random trolly type people. I was even emailed a long time ago asking if I had info on him (I didn't, nor did I even know who he was at the time). So from the sounds of it, someone was rather dissatisfied with him and took it to a greater level.

The most consistent and enthusiastic commenter on my YouTube channel is a teenage girl who makes Minecraft and anime drawing videos.

I don't know if I should find this strange or typical.

I love that Richard Spencer got punched specifically when he was trying to explain his Pepe badge.

like that whole video is great but if there was one detail that rly makes it perfect & a valuable document of this moment in time, it's absolutely that a nazi didn't just eat a sick elbow shot 2 the jaw on live television doing any old thing, nope, he got fuckin' chris hero'd by a dude while fuckin' explaining a 4chan meme 2 a reporter in a wheedling nerd voice like "nyehhhhh this is a cultural flashpoint, this ms paint doodle represents the mood of our nation"
