Site assessments underway for local medical facility

Iberville Parish is moving forward with federally required environmental and geotechnical impact assessments on the site chosen for a new parish emergency medical and ambulatory care center. The assessments, along with a drainage study, will be complete within two months.

Iberville Parish signed a purchase agreement to buy 27.55 acres of property off La. Hwy. 1 near Senator Gay Boulevard in Plaquemine for construction of the new medical facility. The parish and Ochsner Medical Foundation are completing negotiations for Ochsner to operate and staff the facility, providing 24 hour, seven day a week emergency care and other services.

Ochsner accepts 47 insurance plans, including the major insurance plans in this area, so residents will not have to switch their insurance carriers to be able to get Ochsner services locally.

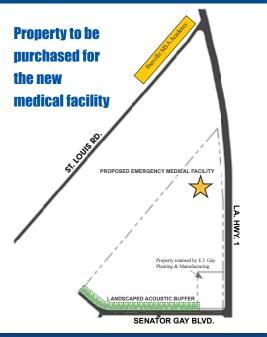

"This is a great step forward on this project," said Ourso. The parish is purchasing the property from Edward J. Gay Planting and Manufacturing Co., Ltd. for $1,080,000. The site was Ochsner's first choice because most of the necessary infrastructure is in place, and because of its location on a high traffic highway, easy accessibility and adequate acreage.

Once the assessments are complete, the Louisiana Office of Community Development – Disaster Recovery Unit must approve the property and the project. The Iberville Parish Council's share of the $44 million Hurricane Gustav recovery funds was $22 million, with the rest going to the municipalities. The parish will use its $22 million in funding, plus a $3 million state appropriation, to build and equip the emergency medical facility.

Increasing pet adoptions

It took a 12-year-old and Craig's List to offer a little hope for dogs and cats at the Iberville Animal Shelter. St. Gabriel resident Cecile McClure was told about a woman who found two puppies and got them adopted quickly by putting them on Craig's List. She decided to try the same thing with animals at the parish shelter.

Photos are taken of several animals each week, and she posts them on Craig's List, with a description of each animal. It helps that the animals are spayed or neutered and vaccinated prior to adoption, so it costs nothing to adopt a pet through the program. Six animals were adopted in the first month since the program began.

The Iberville Animal Shelter euthanized 1,635 animals over the past year, so this effort by Cecile to save some of the animals is commendable. Cecile is the daughter of Dr. Ray McClure and Dr. Angie Samson of St. Gabriel, and the grand daughter of Madeleine Samson of Plaquemine.

COMMUNITY CENTER ON SCHEDULE FOR DECEMBER COMPLETION...

Construction of the North Iberville Community Center is about 50 percent complete and is expected to be completed by the end of December. The 10,000 square feet building, costing $3 million, is being constructed in Rosedale and will serve the north Iberville communities of Maringouin, Grosse Tete and Rosedale. The parish obtained $2.25 million for the project from the state through the efforts of State Sen. Rob Marionneaux and State Rep. Karen St. Germain, and the parish is funding the remainder of the project. The facility will include a raised stage, commercial kitchen, restrooms, office, two meeting rooms and a covered entrance, along with 200 parking spaces.

Choctaw sewer project complete, Bruceville project underway

Construction on the $1.2 million sewer improvement project in the Choctaw Road (La. Hwy. 1148) area south of Plaquemine was completed in July. And, a $650,000 project to run sewer lines to some 45 homes in the Bruceville area, near the Mike Zito Multipurpose center south of Plaquemine, is underway.

CHOCTAW ROAD PROJECT:

The parish funded this sewer improvement project, which included upgrades of two existing sewer pumping stations, one mile of new force main piping, and the installation of a new 80,000 gallon sewer treatment plant with tertiary filter to eliminate the outdated sewer oxidation ponds in the area.

These sewer improvements, as outlined in the parishwide sewer study, will provide the capacity for proper sewer treatment of all existing residential development, as well as treatment plant expandability for future growth in the area.

Approximately 80 existing customers in Timberlanes Trailer Park and 186 new customers in the Choctaw Trailer Park were impacted by the sewer improvement project. The new customers will be serviced by the Iberville Parish Utility Department. Existing oxidation ponds will be closed and properly rehabilitated as part of the project.

BRUCEVILLE PROJECT:

The parish obtained a $500,000 Louisiana Community Development Block Grant (LCDBG) for the sewer improvement project in Bruceville, and is adding approximately $150,000 in parish funds for the project. A new pump station and sewer lines will be run from the sewer treatment plant located near the Mike Zito Multipurpose Center to approximately 45 homes in the Bruceville area on the following streets: Bruce, 1st, 2rd, 3rd, 4th, Folse and Dublieux.

The project began in July and is expected to be completed in March, 2012. The sewer lines will be run to residents' property and they will be responsible for connecting to the system; but residents who meet low income guidelines will be connected through the grant funds. The engineering firm for this project is Forte & Tablada, Inc.

Customers seeing benefits of electrical system improvements

Plaquemine City Light & Water has spent well over $1 million in the last three years making numerous improvements to the electrical system, and customers are now seeing the benefits in improved reliability and better system operation, noted Mayor Mark "Tony" Gulotta.

Gulotta and Utilities Director Ronnie Rockforte said the city has spent more than $500,000 over the last two years cutting back tree limbs around power lines and taking down numerous troublesome trees. This work has significantly helped reduce outages from crashing tree limbs knocking out power lines.

In addition, the city has an ongoing program of increasing the capacity of circuits and providing the city with the capability to switch circuits in emergency situations. A major part of this program is increasing the wire size of electrical lines in numerous areas of the city.

In the spring of 2011, a project to increase the capacity of circuits was completed in north Plaquemine. This project increased reliability of electrical power, and also allows the city to get most customers back on line very quickly after an outage, even when repairs are being made in the area. Another project to increase wire size and provide the capability to switch circuits is underway now in the Orange Street/Iberville Motors area in north Plaquemine.

Another $2.5 million will be spent in the south Plaquemine area, which includes St. Louis Subdivision to the Iberville Math, Science and Arts Academy, to upgrade lines, increase capacity, and also to tie in the city's proposed new sewer treatment system and the proposed new medical facility off La. Hwy. 1 in south Plaquemine. This project is expected to begin in early 2012.

The city will also begin another project soon to add lighting and electrical power on the new extension of Enterprise Boulevard near Wal-Mart

"We have worked very hard to improve the electrical system for customers, and customers are now seeing fewer electrical outages, and more reliable power," noted Mayor Gulotta. "Having local control of our electric system means we can address specific area needs better and quicker, and that is what we are doing."

$15 million road improvement project to be completed by end of September

The last of the streets in Plaquemine's $15 million road improvement project are now being completed, with work on Railroad Avenue now underway. By piecing the project and requiring separate, set prices on asphalt and concrete early in the project, the city was able to save significantly and add roads to the project. One example was the additional asphalt overlay of Railroad Avenue. The original project called for just repair of the cement where necessary. Once the project is complete, the city will have improved and overlaid almost every street in Plaquemine.

Mayor Johnson brings different vision to St. Gabriel

New St. Gabriel Mayor Lionel Johnson Jr., who took office in July, has been busy with new initiatives. "It's always been a personal goal of mine to be in a position where I could help my people," the St. Gabriel native said.

An educator at heart, Johnson came to his new position from the Louisiana Department of Education, where he was an educational technology consultant and program administrator of the Louisiana Educational Leaders' Induction Program. His background, which also includes stints as a teacher and principal, gives him a unique perspective in guiding St. Gabriel into a purposeful and progressive

The model of a great school partner — East Iberville-INC

Schools across this region may be clamoring for businesses to get involved with their programs, but that is not the case in East Iberville. For many years, East Iberville School has enjoyed the active involvement of East Iberville-INC (Industry Neighbor Companies), including both volunteer work and donations to numerous programs.

East Iberville-INC has contributed significantly to advances at the school and to programs that help students; and now that the Iberville Math, Science and Arts Academy East campus has opened, it is also receiving the attention of the organization

East Iberville-INC is made up of industry companies in East Iberville, including Mexichem Fluor, Olin, PCS Nitrogen, Syngenta Crop Protection, Taminco, TOTAL, and Williams Olefins. Its mission is to develop, coordinate, and enhance good neighbor relationships to improve the east Iberville community.

One of the most significant of its many donations has been to Career Compass for career counseling of all high schools students at both East Iberville High and the Iberville MSA Academy East campus. The Career Compass program, which educates and empowers high school students to pursue post-secondary education and training, is funded by the parish for seniors. East Iberville-INC provides funding for the program for 9th through 11th graders.

Another of its big projects is funding PTEC (process technology) scholarships annually, which provide local seniors with an opportunity to end up working at a local industry.

Other contributions include the purchase of commercial grade kitchen equipment for its student-run Tiger Paw Café, special projects, training students to help residents with simple tax returns, purchasing Character books for kindergarten and first graders to promote reading, purchasing student planners for older students, supporting the Quiz Bowl, sponsoring a positive behavior program, providing a defibrillator for the school, school supplies and supplies for fund-raisers, hosting Parent Night events, and more.

In addition, East Iberville-INC has provided volunteer assistance to East Iberville School for years in the form of tutors for students, sessions on job and interviewing skills for students, hosting an annual teacher appreciation luncheon for teachers and Parent Night events, and other programs.

"We are now also getting involved with Iberville MSA Academy," said East Iberville-INC Chairman Trudy

"We believe one of the most significant ways to do that is to assist in educating our students and helping them understand the importance of further education after high school in order to obtain a good job," said member Kit Janis.

CHARACTER BOOKS... Kindergarten and first grade students love receiving their Character Books because the books include the students' names. The books are designed to promote reading and are given annually by East Iberville-INC.

Students gain from LSU program

Five student leaders from Iberville Parish public and parochial schools participated in the award-winning LSU Louisiana Youth Leadership program this past summer, an experience that the students say changed their lives.

Only 200 students throughout Louisiana are selected to participate in this program. PetroLogistics Midsteam, an Iberville Parish oil and gas services firm, expressed an interest in supporting education to Parish President J. Mitchell Ourso, Jr., who connected them with Iberville School Board Member Brian Willis and Academic Officer Elvis J. Cavalier. Willis and Cavalier recommended that PetroLogistics sponsor the students in the program.

"PetroLogistics Midstream President and Chief Executive Officer Allen Kirkley, said "We are committed to giving back to the communities in which we operate and believe LYS was an exceptional opportunity, as it focuses on developing leadership skills in our youth," said Kirkley.

Community Stakeholders getting involved in East Iberville School

East Iberville School is involving the community in its goals for student success. Its outreach program now has community advisors who play a part in supporting the school's goals of promoting academic success for its students.

The first meeting of EI Stakeholders was held recently, said Dr. Michael Eskridge, principal. The members are Howard Georgetown, Office of East Iberville and pastor; Jessie Thomas, Kiwanis; Eveline Mellieon, community leader; Melvin Lodge and Nancy Broussard, Iberville Parish School Board; Victor Kirk, St. Gabriel Health Clinic; Lora Weathersby, leader; Emma Smith, Iberville Bank; Rev. Alex Robertson, minister; Melvin Hasten, councilman; Kristi LaMattery and Caylynne Mack, Big Buddy;

Flora Danielfield, Councilwoman; Joseph Meyinsse and Bobbie Remble, Southern University; Catherine William, St. Gabriel Health Clinic board; Deborah Alexander, Councilwoman; Leman Raphael and Shantel Zanders, City of St. Gabriel; Constance Barbin, Office of Mayor; Kevin Ambeau, Chief of St. Gabriel Police; Lionel Johnson, St. Gabriel Mayor; Kit Janis, East Iberville-INC.; David Roshoto, St. Gabriel Truckstop; local pastors Reverends E. Harris, J. Wilson; Wayne Brown, Club 220; Debra Jones, YWCA, and Councilman Freddie Frazier.

"These leaders are volunteers who provide on-going and focused assistance by enhancing our students' achievement." said Dr. Eskridge.

Town honors 9/11 responders

An inspiring and patriotic memorial was erected on Sept. 11 in the Town of Maringouin to recognize firefighters and first responders who perished 10 years ago in the terrorist attack of New York City.

Maringouin Fire Chief Mickey Gaudet said the 24-member fire department unanimously opted to participate in the memorial "to honor our fallen comrades."

The display featured 50 outdoor pewter frames bearing the names of individual firefighters who died during the World Trade Center attacks on Sept. 11, 2001. The frames, which cost $250 total, were mounted on stakes, and assembled in seven rows across and seven rows down. A lone frame was situated in the middle

"No matter how you view it, it looks like soldiers lined up," Gaudet added. Proceeds from the program, initiated by a Minnesota fire department, will benefit a scholarship fund for the children of the 343 fallen firefighters and first responders of the New York Fire Department.

The memorial also included two small American flags with yellow ribbons honoring Shanna Robertson and Carson Trusclair, Maringouin firefighters who died in the line of duty.

A specially designed American flag, made using a 200-year-old spun cotton technique, was donated by Harriet Lard of Maringouin, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Iberville Parish Chapter. The flag was designed to honor first responders who perished on 9/11 and bears the names of all 343. It was flown near the memorial and will remain on permanent display in the Maringouin Fire Department.

Next year, the Fire Department intends to purchase another 50 frames to honor additional first responders who were lost on 9/11.

Grosse Tete

Residents to see beefed up patrols

With the addition of a new parttime deputy to the Village of Grosse Tete Police Department, citizens and visitors will see a ramped up emphasis on law enforcement.

"We want to address areas of concern in the community and provide a renewed emphasis on traffic and safety," according to Police Chief Tommy Dardenne.

In addition to Dardenne, the Police Department includes Assistant Chief Lansing Snell, part-time officer Eric Tankersley and now James Lewis. The addition of another part-time officer is also being considered

"We'll be stepping up patrols," said Mayor Michael Chauffe. He added that village officials have recently added speed bumps on Bayou Road as a result of complaints about speeders. Drivers should also be aware of school zones and other laws, like those related to hunting season, all-terrain vehicles and selling scrap metal.

Effective on Aug. 15, a new state statute requires more documentation for individuals attempting to sell scrap metal. "The law basically requires more documentation and makes it easier to enforce and track," Chauffe said.

Although the issue hasn't been a critical one, Dardenne said law enforcement officials are seeing the sale of scrap metal across Iberville Parish and want to prevent it from worsening.

Dardenne and Chauffe agreed that the increased enforcement should be seen as a means to protect citizens and create a safe environment for their families. "We want the public to know that we're their friends. If they issue the call, our Police Department will be there," Chauffe said.

White Castle

New programs come from involving community leaders

This summer, the Town of White Castle initiated new programs, including the Summer Enrichment Program that serviced 92 students at Our Lady of Prompt Succor Catholic School building. The mayor & The Rev. Joey Angeles met in January to tour the school, Father Joey met with his parishioners and from there the Summer Enrichment Program came to fruition. More than 40 teachers, custodians, cafeteria workers and citizens volunteered their time for the 4-week summer program.

Mayor Williams also met with all pastors, ministers, and evangelists of the area for a community leaders meeting. The meeting focused on discussing concerns, issues, and future plans to improve the town. Some topics included renovations to downtown, recruiting more businesses, education, and ways to obtain more revenue for the town.

Rosedale

Grants funds progress in Rosedale

A three-year construction program is coming to a close as the Village of Rosedale completes the restoration of two public buildings. But officials are already implementing more community improvements.

Mayor Lawrence "Football" Badeaux says the village is funding the projects with about $2.6 million in grants. Included among the projects are the completed restoration of a former grocery store as a community center on Highway 77 and its neighbor, an old fire station which will become a museum.

The project was paid for with about 90 percent grant funds, including a $25,000 grant from the Louisiana Government Assistance Program (LGAP). Two previous grants totaling $85,000 were also tapped to repair the community center's roof, restore its foundation and install new doors, windows, flooring, electrical wiring and air conditioning. A kitchen and restroom were also added.

The fire station, built in the late 1950s, sustained damage from Hurricane Gustav, and received a new roof and other repairs thanks to a FEMA grant. It now houses a circa 1958 fire truck and will eventually include antique fire equipment and memorabilia from the village's extensive historical archives.

The Village Hall has also gotten business. Hwy. 77, ready for a facelift, with a freshly painted council chamber and a new dais where council members will conduct meetings. An unused jail cell has been converted to an office for Rosedale's police chief.

Badeaux says upcoming projects include a $900,000 water tower, which will soon be put out for bid.

A $25,000 Community Water Enhancement Grant will be allocated to water line enhancement along Highway 411, another $520,000 grant will be used for housing rehabilitation; and a $363,600 grant plus $121,000 in village funds are set for the Hurdle Road drainage project.

The old firehouse, built in the late 1950s, has been repaired and will soon become a museum housing fire memorabilia and village archives.

Renovations at a former grocery story, located on Hwy. 77, are now complete and the building is ready for use as Rosedale's Community Center.

berville Sheriff's Department

Sheriff Allain taps St. Angelo as Chief of Operations

When Sheriff Brent Allain announced his retirement after 40 years in law enforcement, he wanted a right hand man to help ease the transition to new leadership.

So, he appointed his Narcotics Task Force Commander Capt. Aubrey St. Angelo to the role of Chief of Operations. "Aubrey exemplifies all of the qualities that I hold in high regard," Allain says. "He has been in law enforcement for 14 years and he has excelled since day one."

The 33-year-old Iberville native joined the Sheriff's Office with an auxiliary commission as a teenager. While attending the University of Southwestern Louisiana (now University of Louisiana-Lafayette) he discovered that he had a love for law enforcement and decided to join the Sheriff's Office full-time.

"My dad had worked in law enforcement and discouraged me," St. Angelo says. "But, I don't have to make a lot of money to be happy or rich. I found my passion in this career."

He quickly rose up the ranks from a uniform patrolman to lead the Highway Interdiction Team, and then was named Task Force Commander for the Narcotics Task Force in 2008.

St. Angelo, the father of two children, was recently accepted to the prestigious Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy, but turned down the appointment to run for sheriff of Iberville Parish.

"It says a lot about this young man that he chose to stay here," Allain notes. "Only 45 out of thousands of applicants are accepted. And he turned it down because of his honor and loyalty."

St. Angelo made the decision to stay in Iberville Parish shortly after Allain announced his retirement. The Sheriff had invited St. Angelo to his house to break the news.

"I figured he needed help moving something. When he told me he was going to retire, I felt the blood rush right out of my body. He told me that I've always been the guy he could go to when he needed it and that he wanted to leave the parish with someone the citizens could count on," St. Angelo says. "Sheriff Allain holds a sense of security for our residents and strives for professionalism. I admire his leadership."

St. Angelo says Allain is his role model, which is one reason he's turned down offers to leave the parish for other law enforcement positions.

Qualified as an expert witness in criminal court, St. Angelo also has undertaken extensive training and continuing education, including subjects like counter terrorism, drug asset forfeiture and hazard material awareness.

St. Angelo has received commendations from Acadian Ambulance for life-saving assistance, as well as citizen commendations for burglary solving. In 2005, he was named Citizen of the Year by the local American Legion Post. He is also a member of the Iberville Chamber of Commerce Leadership Development Program.

When he is away from his job, St. Angelo enjoys spending time with his wife, Destiny, who works in the Sheriff's Office Criminal Division, and children, 16-year-old Alexis and 3-year-old Aubrey Joseph.
