Office Profile

Greenwich, Connecticut has the distinction of being in the right place at the right time.

The first town across the line from New York, Greenwich combines historically low taxes with ready accessibility to Manhattan, not to mention natural attributes such as 32 miles of beaches and shoreline on picturesque Long Island Sound. For this reason, the town has long attracted the leaders of the corporate, financial, entertainment, and sporting worlds. These residents have fashioned a gem of a town, boasting grand old clubs, beautiful parks, revered private and public schools, state-of-the-art hospital and well endowed library.

Sotheby's International Realty has a strong presence in Greenwich located at One Pickwick Plaza. Our team of veteran real estate professionals specializes in Greenwich and the surrounding areas, including Byram, Riverside, Old Greenwich, and Cos Cob. All are committed to providing consummate service, whatever your real estate needs.

We will continue to preserve our small town personality while emphasizing individualized quality and service for all our clients. With the foremost internationally recognized name, Sotheby's International Realty's powerful and effective e-marketing programs offer local, national, and global exposure.

HISTORY

Greenwich began as a temporary trading post founded by Captain Adrian Block in 1614. The land was eventually purchased from the Native Americans and became a settlement in 1640. Greenwich remained a small community until the 1920s when it doubled in size and land values soared as people realized the potential of this charming town. The next significant rise in population occurred between 1940 and 1960 as more residents began to commute into New York. Today, Greenwich is a well-established, professional and residential community within easy reach of New York City. The town prides itself on its natural beauty, highlighted by breathtaking coastline and pastoral woodlands, as well as its excellent facilities ranging from elegant country golf courses to local yacht clubs. All new development is carefully controlled to ensure that it complements this delightful town.

TOWN GOVERNMENT

Greenwich has a Representative Town Meeting government made up of 230 non-partisan members from 12 districts. The Board of Selectmen is comprised of 3 elected officials. The Board of Education and Board of Tax Review are both run by bipartisan members, while other boards and commissions are appointive.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Greenwich has a distinguished history of educational excellence. The success of the Greenwich Public Schools in meeting the high expectations of the town is reflected in the excellent standardized test scores, by students honored by the National Merit Program and other state or national competitions, and by the number of seniors accepted annually to highly competitive colleges. The community, which consistently ranks in the top one percent of communities in Connecticut in terms of support for its public schools by both residents and businesses, is characterized by economic and social diversity.

Completed in 1970, the high school offers cutting edge educational equipment and elaborate athletic facilities including a swimming pool and eight tennis courts available for public use during the summer. The school is divided into five houses, each with its own master and guidance counselor. An educational program with extensive courses is available during the school year in night classes. Summer school session is offered to grades 4 through 12.
