It takes a matter of seconds to "Google" her name if you do not already know her. The first page flows with information about Ellisa. She's not even a teenager yet. "But I'll be 13 in April" she says; yet this pre teen, which still gets grounded, and can't drive can do one thing... pack a dance floor across Houston and the nation. Her name is DJ Elle Morgan. Fans call her Elle. Friends and family call her Ellisa.

DJ ELLE MORGAN

by: Cade Michals, Publisher, AbOUT Magazine

Sitting in her studio, while she is downloading music for a new track, Elle squeezes in AbOUT Magazine for a inside look into this young mind that has the goal of being "the #1 Female DJ in the world." She always makes sure her music is new and fresh when she prepares for an upcoming gig.

"I want to headline at Tomorrow Land. I feel that if I keep working hard on producing I will be able to achieve that goal. Hopefully I can do it in 5 years" she says with a smile. Sitting here it's hard not to believe she will accomplish that goal. If she does she would be only 18 years old.

With a budding career on the rise at such a young age, Elle states her parents have been a massive support system for her. "My parents have been a huge support to me, they bought my first set of CDJ's, speakers and mixer. They introduced me to house music at a very young age and taught me that music can bring people together. They encourage me to live my dream and tell me constantly that I can achieve whatever goal I set for myself.

Elle's career has of course brought her into the LGBT community several times. "I really don't see a difference while I'm spinning. I have fun at all my gigs and my crowd has fun too." Elle states when we asked her if there was a difference between a straight club gig and a LGBT.

She won a "FACE Award" from AbOUT Magazine in 2012 for Top Female DJ, had a exclusive interview with the Houston Chronicle, ABC 13, and several engagements at local LGBT events. As a young lady in the LGBT community we asked her what her beliefs were on Equality.

"My parents have raised me to believe that all people are equal no matter their race, religion or sexuality. I am glad they have taught me that because there is too much hate in this world. One of my best friends is a lesbian and when she told me that her parents wouldn't talk to her anymore because she was gay it made me sad.

"It was hard to understand how her parents who are supposed to love her didn't accept her". - DJ Elle Morgan on Equality

Talent like this isn't born it's created. Just ask Elle. It takes research and dedication and master skills. Looking for the right beats and tracks. "Zedd uses great melodies, I love Afrojack's Dutchy bass sound & Porter Robinson has pretty lyrics. I feel using their songs in my sets really makes my set enjoyable."

If you have the opportunity to dance to the beat by DJ Elle Morgan, live it to the fullest, because in five short years, instead of Tiesto it will be Ellisa.

LIFE According to Charo

Before I start, please know that my life is an open book. I love sharing my fabulous life, daily occurrences and the bullshit that happens in it. With that being said, let me just say that I recently became single after an almost 12 year relationship.

Dating is not what it used to be. I had just turned 19, never really experienced dating or experimenting. I'm kind of glad that it didn't happen back then, because when you are young, you tend to make stupid decisions. Ok, now lets get to the good shit!

We are now living in a modern era where phone apps are the new "dating" which frankly I think is ruining the art of conversation. I bet 75% of people on these apps couldn't go up to someone at the bar, strike up a conversation and take them home for the night.

Now that I am a single, modern girl, I'm on ALL the apps!! HELL we all have to get some trade once in a while!

It BOGGLES my mind how many gay men in this post HIV world still insist on having unprotected sex before ever even meeting! I am not judging anyone or shaming anyone for his or her choices.

"No, you cannot put it in me bare!" There is no bigger turn off than hearing "can I take the condom off?" when I already done told ya ass no before I even got there. Then the nerves to say "are you sure... No really doesn't men yes?" Unless you're completely brainless, No means FUCKING NO!

So I beg everyone out there to please WRAP IT UP, be safe and stop asking, and also say hi to people at bars and clubs. Walk up and say hi. Trust me it's better! UGH!!!

XOXO
Miss Charo...
