Beat Box

By Jimmy Newsum

It's the hap-happiest season of all. That's right, it's pride season! The time of year gleeful gays celebrate the many strides made towards equality. And what a year it has been. Twelve states legalized gay marriage this year. The Supreme Court may be on the verge of overturning DOMA as well. Partners of gay military personal are now granted benefits. And a new bill legalizing adoption and foster parenting by same-sex couples is set to go before congress.

If the Beastie Boys were right that we have to fight for the right to party, we've certainly earned our celebrations this year. From the deepest, grooviest, most heart felt vocal tracks, to the head throbbing, pounding and pulsating heavy beats, these are the top scorchers DJs are spinning across the country to get their Pride parties started.

"Beat Don't Stop" Jason Walker Out Music Award winner Jason Walker returns to the dance Cornel dasinWalker floor with a deep groove that hypnotizes with lush textures and pulsating layers of beats by acclaimed dance producer C-Rod.

"What You Are"

The follow-up to "Life of the Party", Bex's new track is a dark and mysterious up-in-da-clurrb booty shaker that questions society's ever-growing obsession with looking good. Produced by Mike Rizzo and Mr. Mig, "What You Are" raises its middle finger to things considered normal (like the nuclear family) and flawed (like a bumpy nose or a gap between the teeth).

"Two of Hearts" Dina Delicious

Here is a pop tune that stands the test of time for its infectious, catchy, uplifting melodies. The Stacey Q original was scrumptious in the 80s. Leave it to Dina Delicious, the fun-loving double d trans artist whose music steers bubblegum pop into cotton candy territory, to make it even sweeter.

"Turning It" Karl Giant

Karl Giant proves he is a man of many trades and master of all. He's a celeb photographer (has shot Beyoncé and Kim Kardashian), a TV reality star (he's on TV's Jerseylicious), and now a dance queen.

"Time to Move On"

The colorful rocker whose ode to Stiletto heels quickly became a gay dance floor anthem last summer returns this Pride with a sugary-sweet, synthed-out party record written by Grammy Awardwinning songwriter Crystal Nicole

"I Will Carry You" Shara Strand

Strand has made a name for herself by being the antithesis of the shredded, processed, and roboticized divas that rule today's dance floors

"Come With Us" Sasha Gradiva

This latest club anthem from the platinum blonde rocker continues the movement started by artists like Ke$ha and Gaga that welcome the disenfranchised into the party.
