Miley CYRUS

We all know Miley Cyrus has been on a roller coaster of press attention lately. It was not until Oct. 11 did she fully open up about her personal issues in life relating to her ex Liam Hemsworth with Ellen. "So the last time you were here in November 2012, I threw you an engagement party," Ellen said. "I want my money back, I sent you, like, strippers. You enjoyed it." Ellen joked.

The "Wrecking Ball" singer says that her break up is "not awkward" to talk about to people "because I'm living it."

"I think people spend more time actually thinking about it than I really do. I just believe when a chapter is done you have to close it and start that new one. That's kind of where I am right now," she explained. "I felt like I have so much to be thankful for at this time that my energy hasn't really been focused on that."

"I'm obsessed with being alone and like hearing my thoughts"

The Hanna Montana star continued, "I've been kind of impressed with people and how much they've actually shown more respect. I don't really look up anything, so maybe they haven't been showing respect, but from what I have seen, I felt like people have really focused on my music right now when I've needed them and have actually been really good about that." She really must not look at things, because have not shut up about her break up and her VMA performance.

Bangerz is a reflection of her relationship with Hemsworth, whom she got engaged to in 2012. "I think it says that with starting with 'Adore You' and ending with 'Someone Else,'" she said. "I feel like you can really find like this arch of, like, growth."

Cyrus said she didn't realize how personal the album was "until I really listened to it now that it's done and I have like my physical copy and I put it in my car. I'm like, 'This is really like telling a story.' I think I knew more intuitively where my life was going then I actually thought I did at the time."

Hemsworth, for his part, has yet to publicly comment on their broken engagement.

Miley's new album became available to the public on October 14th and is available on iTunes.

She Isn't The FKING Easter Bunny

LADY BUNNY RETURNS TO HOUSTON THIS HALLOWEEN

It's hard to pinpoint exactly what is Lady Bunny's most adventurous show she has done in Houston all these years she has been coming to Guava Lamp. But what ever that show might be, we are sure it involved a packed crowd, a lot of alcohol, and tons of laughter.

This little bunny has bite. The legendary drag queen, has been performing, DJing, releasing music and appearing in films and on TV shows like "RuPaul's Drag Race, Drag U" and most recently HBO's documentary "The Out List," will blitz Houston this Halloween, October 25th at Guava Lamp for the lounges annual Halloween Friday night. Guest performers also include Guava Lamp's Satin Dolls cast.

Most known for her hilarious, sour tasting, "filthy" and climatic parody covers, her shows are a welcoming change to Houston, bringing in fresh talent and adding a 'twist' to the normal hustle and bustle of all things drag, Houston has been seeing the past couple of years.

Bunny was born Jon Ingle raised in Chattanooga, Tennessee and later moving to Atlanta, where she became roommates with RuPaul. It was not long till they both moved to New York and the rest became history. Drag history.

Guava Lamp, a boutique martini-lounge located on the boarder of Montrose / River Oaks, nestled in a strip center recently under went extensive renovations allowing for an expanded stage, that seems to invite all drag talent. Making this lounge an inviting fun-friendly atmosphere for show watching.

Bunny's first song in over a decade, a pop anthem titled "Take Me Up (High)," released by Lybra Records this past July landed at #1 on Billboard's dance break out list.

"Take Me Up High" is available on iTunes.

LIFE According to Charo

Lets talk shall we...

Girl, first off let me say this, if you don't have any money to go out, STAY YOUR ASS HOME! If you're going out with a plan to get free drinks all night, STAY YOUR ASS HOME! If you come up to my bottle service expecting to drink for free when I didn't invite you, STAY YOUR ASS HOME or you will end up in an article like this.

One thing that works my nerves more than anything else is these queens who leach off others at the club. No I'm not going to offer to buy you a drink and no you cannot tell the bartender that your drink is on me! I will however buy drinks for my personal friends that are friends outside of the club scene.

Just because I am in full regalia at a club doesn't mean I have drink tickets to give you girl. Stop following me around the club so you can be seen with me and try to get free drinks. It's not going to happen.

A couple of weeks ago I had bottle service, out of the blue here come these two twink leaches! They came to my area and started pouring it up! Didn't ask, said "Heeey girl!" and started drinking my juice. --NO one drinks my juice:)

Miss Thang, didn't your mother teach you any manners? You always ask and say please, and thank you.

This doesn't just go for the "one" slug. It goes for everyone. Learn some damn manners.

I don't owe you anything because you said hello... Girl Bye!
