Wah Shang Steamship Co. Ltd was established at Shanghai in 1931 as a syndicate of Yih Zeu-fong and others. In October 1936 it advertised as:

“Shipowners, general brokers, shipping and steamship agents
Yih Zeu-fong: General Manager and Director
Y.C. Sung, S.D. Chen: Directors, also T.Y. Yin, C.Q. Woo, H.Y. Lee”

Yih Zeu-fong (China Press, 5 Sept. 1936)

Yih Zeu-fong is identified in C.Y. Tung's Diary (1948n26, eds Alice King and Cheng Wei Shing) as Yeh Chuan-Fang 叶 X 芳, born 1900 in Zhenhai (Chinhai), the small port at the mouth of the river leading to Ningpo. At the time Wah Shang was established, Yih was therefore around thirty years old. In mid-1932 he acquired his first ship, the 3193-grt tramp Hai Shang (ex Nord, 1904) and in 1933 the smaller Hai Wah (2103/20). The latter stranded and became a total loss in August 1935 and was replaced by Ha-Yih (3154/06), of similar size to Hai Shang. Ha-Ven (2894/05) followed in 1936, making a fleet of three ships.

In February 1937 on his own behalf Yih purchased in Australia the coastal passenger-cargo steamer Craigend (1932/05) which as Hai Yih had a very short life indeed. On 4 March 1937 she sailed from Sydney for Shanghai but on the 13th off the coast of Queensland she sprang leaks and had to be abandoned.

Another personal venture contracted in Australia at the same time was purchase of the coastal passenger liner Karoola (7391/09). This was simply a scrapping deal. Under a very multi-national set of officers and a Chinese crew, she sailed from Newcastle with a part cargo of scrap, nominally for Shanghai, loaded more scrap in East Java ports and after arriving in Kobe on 17 March was delivered to shipbreakers Miyachi & Co. for demolition in Osaka.

Karoola may well have been a venture with Song Ven-kwei, who by 1937 was working with George Marden and Miyachi Taminosuke in the buy-and-scrap market. In the same year Yih and Song jointly acquired the collier Hai Yu (3174/19) for further trading before Yih sold out in August 1938 and she passed to Marden to become the British-flag Gemlock.

Outbreak of the Sino-Japanese War in July 1937 meant that Wah Shang vessels had to be reflagged. Before this could be done, however, Ha-Yih was seized by her Japanese charterer, Daido Kaiun. Hai Shang was transferred to the nominal ownership of Wallem & Co. and Ha-Ven to Williamson & Co. of Hong Kong, both thereafter trading under the Panamanian flag. Through Wallem & Co. in 1938 Wah Shang proceeded to acquire three small Scandinavian coasters which as Hai Dah (1186/06), Hai Ping (1105/11) and Hai Tung (1187/04) were registered in Wallem's home port of Bergen (Norwegian flag). Then in August 1941 Wah Shang S.S. itself was voluntarily wound up (NCH, 6/8/41).

The Wallem & Co. office in Shanghai remained open throughout the war but after the German occupation of Norway in April 1940 Wallem ships traded under Allied requisition. Following Pearl Harbour, in December 1941 Foch (ex Ha-Ven) was seized at Yokohama, Hai Ping at Bangkok. Both were later lost to Allied action. Hai Tung was even more unlucky. It sailed from Bangkok for Singapore on 4 December 1941 and went missing, presumably after encountering the Japanese invasion fleets en route to the Malay Peninsula. Hai Shang was lost just six weeks later on 21 January 1942 when torpedoed and sunk by Japanese submarine I-166 off Rangoon on voyage from Calcutta with coal. Of the 1938 fleet of six ships, only Hai Dah survived the war.

In 1946 the syndicate was reconstituted at Shanghai with somewhat different shareholders and a new board, whose directors were now Yih, Lin Tse Yong (Lin Chih-Jung), Wong Tsze Sin, C.Y. Tung and Chou Tsung-Liang (Chow Chung Liang) 周宗良 (1875-1957), probably also Robert Chen. C.Y. Tung was a shipowner in his own right through Chinese Maritime Trust. Chou had been born in Ningbo, became a comprador at Defag in Shanghai and in due course a director of the Chekiang Industrial Bank and Bank of China but achieved recognition in manufacturing as the 'dye magnate' of Shanghai (C.Y. Tung diary, 22/2/56n). Robert Chen (b. 1905) was best known prewar as General Manager of Chung Hsing S.S.

With compensation for war losses and new capital, Wah Shang under Yih's continuing direction immediately set about rebuilding the fleet, initially with several coastal colliers. In February 1946 the Norwegian-flag Ardent (1804/17) was acquired on completion of wartime requisition on the Australia Coast and was renamed Hai Chen. In May a Canadian Great Lakes steamer Lucius W. Robinson (1914/12) was purchased to become Hai Lin and the Norwegian-flag Fram (2865/07), laid up in Durban, became Hafon. Hai Chen, however, was sold in 1947 to Chung Hsing S.S., implying that Robert Chen withdrew his equity to concentrate on building up the Chung Hsing fleet, in which Hafon became Ming Hsing [see Chung Hsing list].

More ambitiously, and with an eye to the opportunities arising from the Chinese Government's application of cabotage to coastal and Yangtse shipping, Wah Shang also acquired three passenger ships. A former Great Lakes two-funnelled passenger steamer was acquired from the Canadian Navy to become Ha-Sin (2484/10) and in November 1946 was brought into service between Shanghai and Ningpo on charter to Ningshao S.N. Co. Ltd. Of similar size, Kiang Yong (2711/11) was intended, as the name suggested, to run on the Yangtse but this did not eventuate and in November 1948 she was laid up at Hong Kong.

Purchased in August 1948, the third and largest liner was the former Australia-Java-Singapore steamer Montoro (4088/11) intended for the China Coast passenger trade. After delivery at Singapore at the end of September 1948, as Haven she was placed in service between Shanghai and Hong Kong, then busy with a growing exodus from Shanghai. However, in mid-February 1949 she was chartered to the International Refugee Organization (IRO) to carry refugees to the Philippine island of Samar. This was interrupted when she was approaching Hong Kong from Manila, holed herself on a rock and had to be towed into port. After docking and survey, she resumed IRO charter with sailing 1 May 1949 from Shanghai to Samar and thence Sydney with refugees. This work lasted until arrival at Kaohsiung from Hong Kong on 16 February 1950.

By January 1949 Yih had relocated to Hong Kong and began to re-establish connections through the former Shanghai firm Wheelock Marden & Co. Ltd, in which his prewar associate Song Ven-kwei was a partner. On 11 January 1949 he took up a 6% interest with Wheelock's in Landsdowne & Co. Ltd, of which he became General Manager. Landsdowne bought the British prize freighter Empire Raja (ex Wildenfels (6224/22), renaming her Landsdowne.

By mid-1949 Wah Shang's head office had also been relocated to Hong Kong c/- Kwong Yue & Co. on the top floor of the Oi Kwan Hotel, Des Voeux Road. The fleet of five ships retained Chinese registration at Shanghai. Nevertheless, the Communist takeover of Shanghai in mid-1949 and the scattering of shareholders and directors between Hong Kong, Taiwan and the Mainland made the company unsustainable. The passenger steamer Ha-Sin remained in Shanghai but was sunk by Nationalist air attack in July 1949. Other ships were laid up in Hong Kong. Hafon was delivered to breakers there in September 1950. At the end of 1950 the company was dissolved and the remaining ships passed to the main equity holders. Hai Lin went to Lin Tse Yong and almost immediately was sold to breaking up, the long-idle Kiang Yong went to C.Y. Tung's Chinese Maritime Trust but before any plans could come to fruition blew ashore in a typhoon in August 1951 and on refloating also went to breakers. Yih himself took over the best ship, Haven, probably paying out other shareholders. There was also the small steamer Liberal (1268/15), acquired by Wallem & Co. under beneficial Wah Shang ownership in September 1951 but transferred in 1953 to King Tseng-Kwang of New York, further mentioned below.

Yih transferred his personal shipowning interest in Haven into a new company, Lucas S.S. Co. Ltd, which was registered in Hong Kong on 1 April 1952 through solicitors Brutton & Co. with a modest $51,000 paid-up capital. Managing director and equal prime shareholder (400) was Lucas Yih Tse Fong (sic) alongside his wife Yih Lee Hsin Ching and Ping Chih Chen (2), the two latter also being directors. Late in 1952 Lucas S.S. also acquired the engine-damaged Admiral Chase (3286/20), recently towed into Hong Kong, but, as it transpired, for scrap, not further trading. However, with the 42-year-old Haven now laid up in need of extensive repairs, on 31 December 1953 Lucas S.S. contracted a mortgage for £46,000 through Wheelock, Marden & Co. Ltd to buy the freighter Lucas Trader (5343/14), at which point J.L. Marden and M.E.H. Calvert (Wheelocks) and W.G. Lannaman (Yangsze Finance) were appointed directors with one share each. Haven was then sold to Japanese breakers at the end of 1954.

Meanwhile, in May 1952 Yih had taken up a 10% shareholding (2400 shares) and become a director with T.Y., A. and F. Chao and also Robert Chen in Wah Kwong & Co. (HK) Ltd. In February 1954, however, all but 402 of his shares were transferred equally to his wife Yih Lee Sing Tseng (999) and son Yih Chiu Chuan Jen (999).

Establishment of Lucas S.S. and the holding in Wah Kwong was followed in June 1952 by Yih disposing of his holdings in Landsdowne & Co. back to WMC and resigning as Manager. Control of that company now passed to by Teh Hwa Ho and George Chao-chi Ho.

Subsequently in April 1960 Yih shares sold his minority family holdings in Wah Kwong to Chao Tsong-Yea, so that henceforth the Chao family controlled 85% of the equity along with Robert Chen 5% and King Tseng-Kwan of New York (possibly the father of CY's later son-in-law) the other 10%. Wah Kwong launched into rapid expansion to become one of Hong Kong's leading shipowners but Yih must have been offered a price at which he was willing to sell out.

On 14 December 1958 Lucas Trader was laid up at Osaka and the following month handed over to local breakers. Curiously the mortgage was not discharged until 29 December 1959, whereupon Marden, Calvert and Lannaman withdrew as directors and Lucas S.S. reverted to Yih's full control. Yih and Lucas S.S. remained without a ship until in September 1960 a mortgage was contracted with Banque Belge pour l'Étranger (Extreme Orient) S.A. for £18,350 to buy the Australian-built 'D'-class coaster Delungra, then lying at Hong Kong. Yih had the ship converted to oil fuel, then in February sold her on to Teh Hu S.S. to become Ping An.

Yih and Lucas S.S. were now again shipowner without a ship. On 4 May 1961 the address of the registered office transferred to Yih's residence at #1/4 Li Kwan Ave, Causeway Bay. On 21 August 1962 the last annual return was filed. In October 1964 the company was advised that it would be struck off within three months if the previous two year's returns were not lodged and on 29 January 1965 the company was indeed deregistered and struck off. It may be presumed that Yih had died or been incapacitated in the latter part of 1962 or during 1963 and his wife was not attending to the company's affairs.

Although a shipowner in Shanghai and Hong Kong of some thirty years standing, Yih never achieved the prominence or wealth of some of his associates such as Song Ven-kwei, the Chao family, or C.Y. Tung. It could be said that he did not enjoy good luck. After the Sino-Japanese and Pacific Wars had all but destroyed Wah Shang's 1930's fleet, the turmoil in China in the late-1940s frustrated attempts to employ the vessels acquired from 1946 onwards. After Wah Shang was dissolved for a second time, Yih became a one-ship owner with a couple of minority interests on the side. Perhaps that sufficed. We know nothing of his personality or ambitions and he has now faded from memory.

One last aspect of the fleet that is worthy of comment is the nomenclature. Yih/Wah Shang ships usually had the prefix Ha(i) meaning 'Sea' and a suffix usually denoted part of the name of one of the shareholders, thus Ha-Yih and Hafon 海芳 after Yih Zeu-fong 吐 X 芳, Hai Lin 海良 after Lin Tse Yong, Ha-Sin after Wong Tsze Sin (Wang Shih-Hsin), Ha-Ven and Haven after Song Ven(Wen)-kwei, Hai Chen after Robert Chen, and Hai Tung after C. Y. Tung. Kiang Yong 江雲 was consistent in regard to the suffix, which referred to C. Y. Tung (Tung Chao Yung), but in this case only the prefix denoted the Yangtse River (Kiang/Jiang), which was her intended sphere of operation.
