

V

Someone being doxxed and getting other personal information leaked of them because of Roblox porn I foolishly shared around is ridiculous.

(Doxxing someone for images/videos I MADE did NOT make me decide to do all this. Whoever did that are horrible people and should be ashamed.)

Yes, I made all of the NSFW of my own Roblox character, and I am ashamed to have put my name on that character because people connected the NSFW material to my Roblox account which created problems I, as a growing young person did not know would create.

(To clarify, I am 18+ years old)

I am still growing and learning from mistakes, and I am bound to make mistakes again, whether big or small. Every human is.

I don't expect forgiveness for the bad things I made happen or the people I've affected, but I truly am sorry for any pain I caused, I wanted to put my passion somewhere but I went about it the wrong way and made big mistakes.

Regarding Skye, no she did not know about me making NSFW other than suggestive 2D art and SFW renders I started making publicly a few months ago. I lied to her and told her I was not the one making it but rather stalkers. There wasn't enough evidence to prove either stance, so she took an "innocent until proven guilty" approach and left it indecisive. She has been painfully taken out of context and blamed for actions that are purely my own. Please leave her alone.

Edit: I forgot to apologize to several people for lying about what I was truly doing and lying about stopping doing content like this, it was very dishonest of me

MORE BELOW

As for the condo allegations of my game "Bloxzrd's place", Yes, there was on NSFW tool in my game accessible through an Admin Console, I animated and scripted a tool where upon clicking on someone's character you/their character would start doing inappropriate things. I promise to not do anything like that ever again. Nor will I ever engage with condos from this point on.

Going forward, I will de-activate my Roblox account, and as to everyone who is currently friends with me, feel free to not be friends with me. The name Bloxzrd will be kept in consideration alongside future NSFW content, and if said future NSFW content comes to be, that name will be kept strictly to said NSFW content

I want to separate the character from the account I made on Roblox and I do not want to associate said character with an actual Roblox account anymore.